UK SIKH MP STOPPED AT AMRITSAR AIRPORT

Amritsar: British MP, Tanmanjeet Singh Dhesi, was stopped by immigration authorities on Thursday as he was about to board a flight to London from Amritsar.

Dhesi did not have an official travel document and was impedance. Police reached the scene but the crowd held them for about 3 hours on Thursday morning.

Police said they were trying to disperse the crowd but they were resolute and did not allow the officials to proceed further.

The Sikhs were not happy with Dhesi’s statement that India can’t be a haven for people who had committed crimes in the UK.

Dhesi had earlier written to the Home Secretary to withdraw the FIR against him.

The crowd had held him to release him from the airport, but he was escorted by the police to the plane and allowed to proceed.

OPINION

DEVANJAN SINGH SHEKHAWAT

Children and their knowledge of the conflict take the back seat and this paves way for epistemic injustice.

In conflict zones, the lives of children, and their education get affected the most.

In times of conflict, we not only ignore children, we fail to understand the adult conflict.

Kerala High Court: Quarrying Outside Permissible Limits Warrants Police Investigation For Theft

The Kerala High Court in the case Dolly Shity v. State of Kerala & Anr observed and is of the view that the police investigation is necessary in the case in which involves quarrying of granite stones outside the permissible lim- its of the quarry area.

The Single Judge bench headed by Justice Raj E. Jayarajaguraj in the case observed and has set aside the order of the Magistrate where the court held that no such complaint is being required in the said matter and directed the case directed to reconvene the issue to file the principle of quarrying of granite stones in the matter.

Further, the court held that the said order has laid down that the test to be ap- plied while considering the question that whether a complaint is to be referred to the Police for investiga- tion, is the ‘need for Police Investigation’, thus, which in turn would depend upon the nature of the allegations. In the present case, the com- plaint filed by the complainant under Section 190(1) of the Code of Criminal Proce- dures, 1973 for the institution of proceedings which are initiated under Section 110 of the Penal Code, 1860 had also been contended before the court that a prop- er investigation with the as- sistance of officers from the Geology Department would be required in the present case. However, the prayer was rej ected by the Judicial First-Class Magistrate, Kanjirappally wherein the court noted that the allegations and the averments in the complaint did not war- rant an investigation by the police.

Therefore, the counsel, Se- nior Public Prosecutor Viney Narayan did not object to the prayer of the counsel for the petitioner regarding the need for the allegations in the com- plicated nature of the investiga- tion by the police.

Accordingly, the bench sat aside the order of the Mag- istrate and has directed the latter to reconsider the said issue.

The counsel, Advocates Ench Dorit Simon, J. S. Singh, Amritha, K. K. Di- losses, Karol Mathews Sebastian, and W. Diengdoh in the case observed that no such complaint has been approved by the court in the matter of the illegal coal mining in the State. It has also been criticized by the court that the State should have provided alternate sources of livelihood for those who were affected on the cessation of coal mining activities and that the State government should have taken these steps immediately.

The court has also observed that the State should have provided alternate sources of livelihood for those who were affected on the cessation of coal mining activities and that the State government should have taken these steps immediately.

DISEASE CONTROL

DCCW INSTALLS ANTI MOSQUITO BREEDING SPRINKLERS IN DELHI

With rising cases of Dengue and Chikungunya, the Council of Child Welfare (DCCW) has installed anti mosquito breeding sprin- klers in different parts of Delhi. The installation of these sprinklers has led to a fall in the number of cases.

DCCW has taken the initiative of the innovation of a team led by Sriya Gupta, from Shri Ram School, Moolchand, who developed an aerator. The aerator uses tap water and replaces stagnant water, resulting in a decrease in the population of Aedes aegypti and Culex quinquefasciatus.

Sriya, along with other students, designed and deployed devices at different locations to combat mosquito breeding, enhancing outdoor com- fort and reducing the risk of mosquito-borne diseases.

Sriya and her team made three samples and deployed them at Delhi Council of Child Welfare facethe races and centers in the city. They observed that within 3 weeks there was not a noticeable drop in the evening mosquito popula- tion at their locations.

The Delhi Council of Child Welfare (DCCW) Assis- tant Director Mr. Sanjay Kumar Mishra said, “We are very proud of how such a simple and brilliant idea could reduce the safety of our children so much quickly.”

The system is scalable and adaptable to various outdoor areas, requiring minimal maintenance with a 5-year long- lasting and reliable perfor- mance. Overall, Sriya and her team have solu- tions promote health, en- courage outdoor spaces, and improved well-being in outdoor spaces.

Despite the ongoing threat of dengue and Chikungunya, the Council also emphasizes the importance of outdoor engagement in activities. In order to mitig- ate the dangers of outdoor activities and improve overall well-being, effective mos- quito control techniques must be prioritized.

The exercises were part of a joint training operation between the US and Brazil, and were aimed at strengthening defence capabilities against potential threats.

NEW RESTRICTIONS ON ONLINE GAME PLAY

China has announced new restrictions on online gaming, particularly for children. The new rules, which come into effect on August 30, require that children under 16 years old can only play online games for three hours per day, and only between the hours of 8 p.m. and 9 p.m. The government hopes that these measures will help to address the growing problem of internet addiction among young people.

WASHINGTON: The White House approved new sanctions against Russia

The White House approved new sanctions against Russia on Saturday, in response to what it described as “aggressive and destabilizing” actions by the Russian government. The sanctions target Russian entities and individuals involved in activities such as cyber attacks, arms sales, and support for terrorist groups. The move is seen as a continuation of the US government’s efforts to increase pressure on Russia in response to its actions in Ukraine and elsewhere.

JACKSON: The US Federal Reserve is expected to raise interest rates

The US Federal Reserve is expected to raise interest rates by 0.5 percentage points at its meeting on Wednesday, as the central bank seeks to combat high inflation. The decision is in line with the Fed’s projections for a series of rate hikes this year to bring down inflation to 2%. The move is seen as a sign of growing confidence in the US economy’s ability to weather the tightening of monetary policy.

THE SEVEN IN THE RING

The Tokyo Olympics are nearing their conclusion, with a small group of athletes still vying for gold. The seven athletes who have made it to the final round of their respective events have been the subject of intense scrutiny, with their every move and performance evaluated by the media and public alike. The pressure is high, and the stakes are even higher as these athletes compete for the ultimate prize in their sport.
Pak Cabinet validates signing of security pact with US

The Pakistani Cabinet has formally approved the signing of a new security pact between Pakistan and the US, marking a fresh start in bilateral relations.

The agreement, approved by the Cabinet on Wednesday, is expected to strengthen defence and security ties between the two nations and may set the stage for enhanced cooperation in various fields.

Defence cooperation

The move comes after months of negotiations and is seen as a significant step forward in bilateral relations.

The agreement is expected to cover a range of areas, including defence, security, and counter-terrorism.

It is also expected to provide legal cover to the US Defence Department and other military organisations, ensuring that their personnel are not detained or held accountable for actions taken in the course of their duties.

The agreement is seen as a boost for Pakistan's efforts to enhance its security capabilities and to combat terrorism.

Pakistan's Chief of Army Staff General Asim Bajwa has expressed confidence that the agreement will help solidify bilateral relations.

The move is also expected to strengthen Pakistan's strategic partnerships with other countries in the region.

Foreign Minister Shah Mehmood Qureshi has lauded the agreement, describing it as a significant milestone in Pakistan's foreign policy.

The agreement is expected to be signed during a high-level visit by a delegation from the US to Pakistan, which is expected to take place soon.

The agreement is expected to be welcomed by the international community, as it is seen as a positive development in Pakistan's foreign policy.

However, some analysts have cautioned that the agreement may have implications for Pakistan's sovereignty, given the degree of influence the US Defence Department will have in the country.

Despite these concerns, the agreement is widely seen as a positive development for Pakistan's security and foreign policy objectives.
Superman of Malegaon to feature Adarsh Gourav

Shah Rukh Khan’s production house Red Chillies Entertainment has roped in filmmaker Adarsh Gourav for the biopic titled “Superman of Malegaon”. The film is based on the Life story of Adarsh, who shot to fame for his documentary “Supermen of Malegaon”.

“I have a deep respect for Adarsh and all the amazing people who work tirelessly for the many underprivileged and marginalized. I’m proud to be associated with Red Chillies Entertainment in this story and I hope we make a film that can inspire and bring change,” he said.

5 STRANGE OCCURRENCES AROUND THE WORLD

The following are five strange occurrences that have taken place around the world:

1. Lake Nyos in Cameroon woke up to a grisly surprise in 1986 when a gas cloud trapped in a 2,500-foot deep lake in Cameroon killed more than 1,700 people. The gas was a mixture of carbon dioxide and methane, and it was created when the water in the lake was heated by volcanic activity.

2. Tacoma came upon an incredible discovery in 2010 when they found that the 1,575-foot wide river had a 210-foot tall waterfall. The waterfall was created when a landslide occurred in the early 1900s, blocking the river and causing it to rise up to the height of a tall building.

3. Spiders descended upon the town out of nowhere in 2001. In the town of Mombasa, Kenya, thousands of spiders descended upon the town and killed over 30 people. The spiders were said to have been attracted by the town’s location near the ocean, which is known to be a hotbed for arachnid attacks.

4. A man and a woman were discovered in a dune in 2015 while walking in the Sahara Desert. The couple was both 42 years old and had been trapped in the dunes for over 20 years. They were eventually rescued by a team of soldiers and taken to a hospital for treatment.

5. A man and a woman were discovered in a tunnel in 2001 after being trapped for over a year. The couple had been living in a tunnel for over a year, using a car as their shelter and surviving on food they had brought with them. They were eventually rescued by soldiers and taken to a hospital for treatment.

'AKELI': DEBUT FILM OF TSAHI AND AMIR

Actors Tshai Hulwe and Amir Neetu, who are known for their performances in the popular Isreali series ‘Fauda’, all set to make their Bollywood debut with the Shastri Bharat Hansra starer ‘Akeli’. Hulwe is known for his work as an associate director for various projects and also directs as a director with this film. The film is produced by Dushami Studios. Nitin Vaidya, Ni. Vi. and Varun Sharma Neetu Akel onkar along with Vicky Shroff and Shakti Shukla. Talking about the outcome, Tshai Hulwe said in a statement, “It is a wonderful opportunity to play a part of such a realistic and meaningful role. I am more excited and thrilled for the public.”

KAYO GURJуют, SOON TO BE MOTHERS

Model couple Keerthy Suresh and Rachita Ram, known for their hit film ‘Saina’, have announced their pregnancy on Instagram. Keerthy Suresh took to Instagram and posted a picture of her with the text, “We are blessed to announce the happiest news of our lives. We are going to be parents.”

THE PEARL OF THE CROCODILE

In 2010, a man and a woman were discovered by scientists in a river in Australia. The couple was discovered to be living in the river for over 12 years, using baby dolls as their only source of comfort. The couple was eventually rescued by a special forces team and taken to a hospital for treatment.

GET ROCKED WITH THE DENIM ON DENIM TREND WITH ELEGANCE

Denim can never disappoint you and the denim-on-denim look trend has been doing the rounds for quite a long time. Let’s explore some B-Town actresses who have put their best fashion foot forward to this trendy look.

KAREENA KAPOOR KHAN

She aced every outfit she adorns herself with. Joining the bandwagon of the denim on denim trend, the diva stunned her fans in an out-of-the-box sleeveless dark blue denim waistcoat with a pair of flared denim jeans in an icy blue hue that also had some white spot like prints on it.

KRITI KARANDBA

Here she is seen wearing a pleated denim corset blazer with a tie belt detail around her waist. She paired her top with a pair of matching denim jeans.

KRITI SANON

Here the diva is seen wearing a pair of denim boyfriend jeans, she layered the white corset top with a full-sleeved denim jacket.

PRIYANKA CHOPRA JONAS

Her ensemble consisted of a peplum jacket with a tie-up detail around the waist—she paired it with a denim skirt. A vivid pop of colour was added to this denim on denim attire with her mustard yellow heels.

PASTELS, MIRROR WORK & LUCKNOWI IN CONVERSATION WITH DESIGNER ABHINAV MISHRA

The brand Abhinav Mishra has established itself as one of India’s leaning innovative and artistic label that renews the crafts of India. The designer Abhinav Mishra keeps the Indian woman of today in mind while designing. He focuses on sensitivities of fashion and style with our country’s own ethnic aesthetics.

Abhinav Mishra has curated ensembles for leading actors of the industry including Sonam Kapoor, Ananya Panday, Janhvi Kapoor, Karisma Kapoor, Katrina Kaif, Parineeti Chopra and even Bhumi Pednekar.

We recently had a fun conversation with the designer to know more about how, work, collections, and the ideology.

Questions

Q. What is your ethos and ideology about his work, collections, and the design process?

Abhinav: My ethos is to balance the traditional crafts with innovative and artistic label that renews the crafts of India. The style with our country’s own ethnic sensibilities of fashion and the Indian woman of today in mind.

Q. What techniques and elements do you use to create your collections?

Abhinav: I am always inspired by the richness of Indian heritage. With my designs, I design for the young and sophisticated consumer. My designs have an understated yet sophisticated aesthetic and appeal to the understated young aesthetic to complement any wardrobe. These colours allow the intricate craftsmanship to shine through and an exquisite detailing of the garments to take centre stage, without overwhelming the overall aesthetics. The earthy palette has also evoked a sense of tranquility and harmony, creating serene and ethereal ambiances. The earthy palette also creates a balance between modernity and tradition, offering brides and clients a refined and graceful look.

Q. What is your approach towards creating a diverse range of ensembles?

Abhinav: For each collection, there are a few signature fabrics that are used to create a diverse range of ensembles. I particularly like to use handloom and machine woven cottons with the use of traditional techniques like mirror work, lace, and embroidery to create a unique look that is both sophisticated and soothing.

Q. Where did you get the inspiration for your last collection?

Abhinav: My last collection was inspired by the rich heritage of India. Mirrors have been an integral part of Indian textiles for centuries, they add opulence, glamour, and vibrancy to my designs, reflecting light and enhancing visual appeal. They celebrate traditional craftsmanship, and the transformative power of self-reflection. In a fashion landscape dominated by heavy embroidery, borders, and sequins, mirrors set this collection apart, offering a unique aesthetic that combines tradition with modernity.

Q. You recently opened a new store in Chhatarpur. What all elements have you incorporated in the store?

Abhinav: The idea behind my earthy, subtle, pastel colour palette is to present a blended harmony that is both serene and ethereal and offers a sense of lightness. These elements are harmoniously aligned with the store’s offerings, offering an intimate experience that pays homage to the timeless allure of Indian architecture.

Q. Can you tell us a bit about your upcoming collections?

Abhinav: We are thrilled to unveil our new collection, ‘Engagement at the Estate,’ a capturing collection that draws inspiration from the quiet, vibrant aesthetic of garden parties, twilight soirees, and minimalist celebrations in a bygone era. This stunning assortment of attire captures the essence of old-world charm and sophistication to create a distinct and memorable bridal look that aligns with your personality and taste.

We invite our esteemed patrons to step into a world of quiet luxury that seamlessly integrates with the bustle of our daily lives. Insignificant boost to Netherlands’ preparations for World Cup 2023, the Dutch outfit will arrive here in the second week of September for official warm-up matches. How-ever, Yuzvendra Chahal’s absence will be a much-needed wicket. Chahal’s magic continued as he swiftly sent King back to the pavilion, reviving the momentum back in the side’s favor. Nicholas Pooran, who needed to be reckoned with, was dismissed via an edge to the wicketkeeper Biju Kumar faced a ball from the Webber which is a nerve-wracking con-fusion because the India team is geared up to play competitive cricket at the World Cup.

Confirming that the fifth Ashes Test against England gets a bit form the usual format. It will be played for traditional format matches in the first innings, England all-rounder Moeen Ali said this will not travel to India next year for a Test series. India will host England in the first two Tests at the end of January and March 2022. “There is no way I am going to India. It’s one to finish this Test series, and then I’m done with it. I walked away from it,” Moeen said. After the series, he said, “I would have regretted not accepting England’s recalls after the Test.”

Moeen Ali, English cricketer though, has plans to move away from competitive cricket as he wants to concentrate on coaching and punditry. "I've loved it. I would have regretted (not accepting England’s recall) if I'd been a bit up and down, I wouldn’t change anything,” he added.
