Brutal attack leaves Punjab Shiv Sena leader in critical state

TARUN KASHYAP

Shiv Sena (Punjab) leader Sandeep Thapar, also known as ‘leader in critical state,’ was attacked with swords by three assailants near the Civil Hospital in Ludhiana. Thapar sustained severe head injuries and was taken to the Civil hospital, later he was shifted to DMCH and has been in a critical condition. Passers-by captured the brutal attack on video. In the purported video, the three assailants dressed as Nihangs approached Thapar while he was on a scooter with his security man standing beside him. Thapar, known for his vocal stance against Khalistan, and terrorism in Punjab, had spoken out against the farmers’ agitation in the past.

Late in the evening, the Punjab Police have arrested the three people from Jalandhar. They have been identified as Surajit Singh and Harjot Singh. Third accused is still at large. The motive behind the attack is being investigated. A First Information Report (FIR) has been filed against them under sections 307, 147, 148, 293, 153, 314, and 149.

Despite being accompanied by a Gujjar, Thapar received no immediate protection during the assault.

Criminals are not born out but made, said court while granting bail to counterfeiter accused

Criminals are not born out but made, said the Supreme Court recently when it acknowledged various factors responsible for making the offender commit the crime.

A bench of judges JB Pardiwala and Ujjal Khuana made these remarks on July 8 when he was hearing the bail plea of an accused whose trial has been on for the last four years.

“(Criminals) are not born out but made,” the top court said. It further added that the top court has noticed that criminals are in everyone and so, we cannot write off any criminal as beyond redemption. “This assumption fundamental is often mocked when dealing with delinquents, juveniles and adults,” the court said.

“Indeed, every sinner has a past and every sinner is a future,” the court said in its order. The court noted that “those factors that may be social and economic, may be the result of value erosion or parental neglect and/or factors that are unique to the stress of circumstances, may be the manifestation of compulsions in a milieu of affluence contrasted with indifference or other privations.”

Labour Party sweeps UK polls, Starmer new PM

Keir Starmer became UK’s new prime minister on Friday after winning a general election in which the Labour Party led. Mr Starmer had led a narrow victory in a general election in which the Labour Party swept the UK. The Labour Party, led by Mr Starmer, is the largest party in the UK.

The Labour Party won 412 seats in the UK’s House of Commons, up from 260 seats in the last election in 2019. The win was celebrated by the party’s supporters and congratulated by the opposition parties.

Keir Starmer, 56, is the first Labour leader since Tony Blair and has been in office since May 2020. He is the first Labour leader since 1964 to win a general election.

Keir Starmer, who led the Labour Party in the UK’s general election, had campaigned on a number of issues, including social justice, education, and the economy.

Keir Starmer’s win marks a historic moment for Labour as the party returns to power after 13 years of Conservative rule. The win could have significant implications for UK politics and its relationship with the EU.

Starmer, who has been in office since 2020, had faced criticism for his handling of the UK’s Brexit negotiations and his failure to secure a deal with the EU.

However, Keir Starmer’s win could mark the end of the era of austerity and an era of social justice, with Labour promising to invest in education and social care, and tackle inequality.

Keir Starmer’s victory comes after a campaign that saw him promise to bring an end to austerity and invest in public services, including health and education.

Keir Starmer’s win marks a significant moment for UK politics and could have implications for the EU’s relations with the UK.

Keir Starmer expressed his happiness on winning the election and called for a “new开始”. He thanked his team and supporters for their hard work and dedication.

Keir Starmer said: “I am proud to be the new prime minister of the UK. I am committed to working hard for all the people of the UK. My priority will be to ensure that the UK has a strong economy and a fair society.”

Keir Starmer also thanked the Labour Party members and supporters for their “hard work, dedication and courage”.

Keir Starmer’s win was celebrated by Labour supporters across the country, who took to the streets to celebrate the party’s victory.

Excise case: HC issues notice to CBI on bail plea moved by Kirjeval

Kavitha to remain in custody till July 18

The Bombay High Court on Friday extended judicial custody of Congress leader Kavitha in a case related to alleged excise policy violation. Kavitha was produced before the court through video conferencing from Tirukkadal. Her counsel had argued that she was not in a position to pay bail and must be granted pre-arrest custody.

The court was likely to consider the charge sheet and is scheduled to decide on the application for pre-arrest custody on Monday, July 11. PV Mohit Rao, senior advocate, appeared for Kavitha.

The chargesheet, which was submitted to the court last Saturday, has alleged that Kavitha, who was also posted as Chief Minister of Tamil Nadu in 2013-2016, had made a parallel system to the excise policy in the state. The court had earlier held that Kavitha had made a parallel system to the excise policy in the state and a case was pending against her in this regard.

The court had also held that there was a public interest to extend the custody of Kavitha, who is believed to be untraceable. The court had earlier directed that the matter be heard on Monday. The court had also directed that the matter be heard without any delay.

On July 18, the court will hear the matter again and will decide on the issue. The court had earlier held that there was a public interest to extend the custody of Kavitha, who is believed to be untraceable.

The court had further directed that the matter be heard without any delay.

Ensure transparency in execution of projects under Dilli Gramodaya Abhiyan, LG tells DDA

Delhi Transport Minister Kailash Gahlot has directed the department officials to take strict action, including suspension of their licenses, against any car dealer if they do not hand over the registration certificate to the car buyer at the time of purchase of the vehicle.

In 2021, the Delhi government had created the facility of the buyers getting the self-registration certificate (RC) for their vehicle directly from the dealer. There are dealers that have self-registration facility.

Gahlot has taken cognizance of complaints from private vehicle buyers in Delhi regarding delays in receiving the RC on the same day at the time of purchase, despite a mandate by the Delhi government, an official statement from his office said.

Gahlot convened a meeting with senior officials of the Transport Department and directed them to take strict action against the uncooperative dealers, including suspension of trade license, it added.

The minister also has plans to hold a meeting with the dealers next week over the issue.

It is unacceptable that vehicle buyers are facing delays in receiving their registration certificate at the time of delivery of their purchased vehicle. The Delhi government has made provisions for same-day issuance of RCs, and any deviation from this must be addressed promptly.

“We will take strict action against any dealer found not adhering to this mandate. Ensuring timely issuance of RCs is critical for the smooth functioning of the vehicle. The dealer is required to ensure top-notch service to the buyers and the efficiency of our transport system,” he was quoted as saying in the statement.

Last month, the Delhi government’s transport department had directed all its district offices to seek records on issuance of vehicle RCs from the vehicle dealer and forward all complaints raised by the buyers to the district offices.

The Islamabad government has made provisions for same-day issuance of RCs, and any deviation from this must be addressed promptly.

Additionally, across Delhi and by September 2022, all self-registration dealers in the city will be asked to create an online portal.

The hand-to-hand RC or RC printing facility at dealer points was launched by the Kejriwal government to eliminate long wait times and reduce the need for the buyers to visit the RTOs, ensuring hassle-free vehicle registration.

Self-registration facilities were provided to the dealers in the city in 2021 to increase the convenience of the buyers and to reduce the number of visits at the RTOs.

However, recent observations by Gahlot revealed that the dealers were not providing RCs on the day of vehicle delivery, with delays of two to three weeks and in some cases more than two months. The AAP has won the election twice in 2020 with the support of the opposition's votes.
NCW takes suo moto cognizance of Mahua Moitra’s remarks on rekha Sharma

The National Commission for Women (NCW) has taken suo moto cognizance of remarks by Congress member of Parliament Mahua Moitra about its Chairperson Rekha Sharma.

These remarks are not only outrageous but also derogatory says the NCW.

Upon careful consideration, the Commission has decided to initiate a probe into the nature of these remarks, particularly as it is alleged that the Chairperson of NCW during her official trip to Haiti, said that the women’s right to dignity, the NCW would not condone any wrongdoing.

The NCW said that it has noted the Chairperson’s official reply and the letter sent by the Bharatiya Sahara Naya Sushakta, 2021, a day after.

The slogan has been a central theme in political campaigns. The slogan helped connect with masses, emphasising commitment to national security and rural development. It became a powerful tool for mobilising support and rallying voters.

LAL BAHADUR SHASTRI’S LEADERSHIP

Lal Bahadur Shastri, who became the Prime Minister in 1964, provided the necessary policies during this critical period. Known for his straightforward policy, and deep empathy for the common people, Shastri understood the importance of both the soldier and the farmer in the nation’s building process.

COMING OF THE SLOGAN

During the Indo-Pakistani War of 1965, Lal Bahadur Shastri called upon the nation to rally behind the soldier and the farmers ensuring food security. In a radio address on September 23, 1965, he popularised the slogan “Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” to galvanise the spirit of national unity and national defence. The slogan resonated deeply with the Indian populace, symbolising the dual emphasis on national defence and agricultural development.

SIGNIFICANCE AND NATIONAL AND INDIAN UNITY

“Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” quickly became a part of the national psyche. It became a rallying cry for national unity and national security. It underscored the interconnectedness of defence and farmers.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF SACRIFICES

The slogan also served to acknowledge and honor the sacrifices made by soldiers and farmers alike. It highlighted their crucial roles in shaping India’s destiny and ensuring its progress.

POLITICAL AND SOCIAL IMPORTANCE

The slogan bolstered support for Shastri’s policies during a challenging period. The slogan emphasized the importance of farmers in national unity and the role of the farmer in national defence.

EVOLUTION OVER TIME

POST-1965 ERA

After the Indo-Pakistani War of 1965, “Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” continued to resonate throughout India’s polities. It became a symbol of the oneness of the soldier and the farmer, dedication, and selflessness embodied by soldiers and farmers.

ECONOMIC REFORMS AND AGRICULTURAL POLICIES

In subsequent decades, India undertook significant economic reforms, industrialization, and technological advancements. While the economic diversification, agriculture remained a crucial sector, albeit with evolving challenges related to sustaining productivity, modernization, and food security.

DEFENCE AND SECURITY CHALLENGES

India continued to face security challenges, including conflicts with Pakistan and China, terrorism, and internal insurgencies.

HERE’S A LOOK AT HOW THIS SLOGAN HAS INFLUENCED INDIAN POLITICS

The slogan has influenced numerous political decisions related to national security, defence, and economic policies. It underscored the interconnectedness of these domains, highlighting the need for a holistic approach to governance.

Agricultural Policies: The slogan underscored the importance of India’s agricultural economy. It influenced government policies aimed at agricultural development, rural infrastructure, and welfare schemes for farmers. Political parties across the spectrum have since used promises related to agriculture and rural development as key election issues, often invoking the spirit of “Jai Jawan Jai Kisan.”

Defence and National Security: The slogan also highlighted the sacrifices and contributions of the armed forces in defending the nation. Politicians often invoked the slogan to highlight the military and advocate for policies that strengthen national security interests related to defence preparations and veterans’ welfare feature prominently in political discourse, especial during elections.

Symbol of National Unity: “Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” has become iconic, underscoring the interconnection between the soldier and the farmer in India’s history, the slogan has been used strategically by political parties to engage voters, reaffirm the nation’s commitment to national security and overall welfare.

In conclusion, “Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” has played a pivotal role in shaping Indian political discourse and policies. It has been used ideologically by political parties to connect with voters, reaffirm the nation’s commitment to national security and overall welfare. The slogan’s legacy underscores its enduring relevance in Indian politics.

In contemporary India, “Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” remains relevant as a reminder of the importance of the military, farmers, and Indias’ role in upholding the spirit of national unity, security, and contributing to the nation’s development.

CONTEMPORARY RELIEF AND SECURITY DYNAMICS

In contemporary India, “Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” remains relevant as a reminder of the importance of the military, farmers, and India’s role in upholding the spirit of national unity, security, and contributing to the nation’s development.

DEFENCE AND SECURITY DYNAMICS

India’s defence and security dynamics remain crucial to maintaining regional stability. The slogans underscores the importance of the armed forces in upholding India’s national security interests, contributing to the nation’s development and prosperity.

Policy Implications

There is a growing recognition of the need for holistic policies that prioritize the well-being of soldiers and farmers alike. Initiatives aimed at improving defence capabilities, enhancing agricultural productivity, ensuring food security, and promoting rural development continue to shape India’s political landscape.

Conclusion

“Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” is not only a proud part of Indian history but also a guiding principle for the nation’s future. It serves as a reminder of the nation’s commitment to national security and prosperity. The slogan’s legacy underscores its enduring relevance in Indian politics.

JAI JAWAN JAI KISAN AND POLITICS

In conclusion, “Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” has transcended its political origins to become a cultural symbol of patriotism and national unity. It resonates deeply with the Indian popular and is frequently invoked during national celebrations, commemorations of military victories, and moments of crisis. It continues to evoke sentiment to bolster their image and rally public support.

Critical of Political Exploitation

Despite its positive connotations, the slogan has also faced criticism for being exploited for political gain without substantive actions to support farmers and soldiers. Critics argue that invoking the slogan during election campaigns should be backed by concrete policies and initiatives that genuinely benefit the soldiers and farmers.

Legacy and Continuity

Even decades after its inception, “Jai Jawan Jai Kisan” continues to shape political ideologies and policies in India. It remains a panacea for assessing political leaders’ commitment to national security, agricultural prosperity, and overall welfare. The slogan’s legacy underscores its enduring relevance in Indian politics.

The volatile situation in Myanmar has a massive impact on effect on its neighbours, including the countries of India and Pakistan. The Pakistan Army has set up an array of rebel military bases along the border to safeguard the independence of the Myanmar government.

The reaction has been of particular concern for the world's second largest country Myanmar, which has been heavily militarized and supported by the US and other Western nations. The situation has led to a massive influx of refugees from Myanmar into Thailand, with thousands of people crossing the border daily. The Thai government has been under pressure to respond to the crisis, and has recently announced plans to build new camps and provide emergency assistance to the refugees.

Mumbai police refused to clear the land for the construction of a new temple, citing safety concerns. The police have asked for a report from the temple authorities before allowing any further construction.

The temple authorities have rejected the police's decision and have appealed for the temple to be built as soon as possible. The temple is a popular tourist destination and attracts thousands of visitors every year.

In other news, the government of Myanmar has announced plans to build a new airport in the region of Myawaddy, which is currently under the control of armed groups. The airport is expected to be operational by 2023.

In the meantime, the situation remains tense and volatile, with frequent clashes between the Myanmar military and various ethnic groups. The international community continues to call for a peaceful resolution to the crisis, and to provide humanitarian assistance to those affected.

Sri Lanka achieves $8 billion relief through debt restructuring

The government of Sri Lanka has successfully renegotiated its debt with international lenders, resulting in a $8 billion relief package. This marks a significant step forward in the country's efforts to address its ongoing economic crisis.

The relief package includes refinancing of existing debt, cancellation of debt, and new lending. The country has been struggling with debt repayment obligations and high inflation rates, which have contributed to a significant decline in the economy.

The relief package is expected to provide relief to Sri Lanka's economy, which has been in crisis for several years. The package includes measures to reduce interest rates, increase foreign investment, and support economic growth.

The Sri Lankan government has been working closely with international financial institutions, such as the International Monetary Fund (IMF), to negotiate the relief package. The agreement will help the country to access new funding and address its debt burden.

The successful debt restructuring is a positive step for Sri Lanka's economy and the international financial community. It demonstrates the commitment of international lenders to support the country in its efforts to address its economic challenges and stabilize its finances.

The government of Sri Lanka is expected to use the relief package to fund essential services, such as healthcare and education, and to invest in infrastructure development. The country hopes to use the relief package to stimulate economic growth and create jobs.

In addition, the relief package will help Sri Lanka to address its debt sustainability issues. The country has been facing difficulties in servicing its debt, which has contributed to a decline in the value of its currency and a rise in inflation rates.

The government of Sri Lanka is committed to implementing structural reforms to address the country's economic challenges. The country has been working closely with international financial institutions to develop a medium-term economic strategy.

UN Secy-Gen calls for global unity and action at SCO Summit

The UN Secretary-General, Antonio Guterres, called for global unity and action in his speech at the SCO Summit, emphasizing the need for collective action to address global challenges.

The Summit, held in Dushanbe, Tajikistan, was attended by leaders from the five member states of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO). Guterres highlighted the importance of unity in addressing issues such as climate change, the COVID-19 pandemic, and geopolitical divisions.

He urged stronger commitment from developed countries and innovative financing mechanisms to support climate action. On the digital front, Guterres underscored the potential of artificial intelligence (AI) to drive sustainable development while cautioning against any unregulated use. He proposed a new international framework for AI governance and called for a more inclusive global participation in digital space and policies.

The Secretary-General emphasized the crucial role of the UN, in partnership with regional organizations and countries, to address these challenges.

The summit concludes with a renewed commitment to cooperate and take joint actions towards a more harmonious and secure world.

Australians can learn from US elections

Australia can learn from the US presidential elections, according to a new poll. The poll, conducted by a leading polling company, found that Australians support the idea of a merit-based system for political candidates. The poll was based on a sample of over 1,000 likely voters and was conducted on a national scale.

The poll indicates that Australians believe that political candidates should be judged on their qualifications and experience, rather than their background or connections. This aligns with the concept of meritocracy, which is widely supported in Australia.

The poll also highlights the importance of transparency and accountability in the political system. Australians want to see a more open and fair political process, where candidates are held accountable for their actions.

The poll findings suggest that Australians are concerned about the current state of politics and are looking for a change. The polls will be closely watched by political leaders and parties, as they seek to understand the public's views and develop strategies to attract their support.

Biden to blitz media over weekend to counter claims of mental decline

President Biden is scheduled to engage with the media over the weekend to counter claims of mental decline. The move comes ahead of another crucial test for Biden, as he prepares for the upcoming presidential debate.

Biden is expected to address the media on Saturday, in the lead-up to the debate, to present his own case and counter any attacks or misinformation made by his opponents. The debate is scheduled for Tuesday, and it is expected to be a key moment in the campaign.

Biden's team is preparing to highlight his experience, leadership, and policy positions, while also addressing any questions or concerns that may arise during the debate. The president is expected to emphasize his record of accomplishments and his vision for the future of the country.

 Donald Trump's campaign has been focusing on the president's age and health, as a way to undermine Biden's candidacy. However, Biden's campaign is determined to present him as a competent and capable leader, and is working to counter any negative narratives.

The weekend media blitz is part of a broader strategy to bolster Biden's image and credibility. The campaign is also preparing for the upcoming debate, where it hopes to showcase Biden's knowledge of the issues and his ability to connect with voters.

The weekend media activities are expected to be closely watched by the media and the public, as Biden seeks to set the agenda and establish his message ahead of the debate.

The US goes through the first presidential debate: the UK commences choice to oppose

The first presidential debate between Donald Trump and Joe Biden took place on September 29, 2020. The debate was held in Cleveland, Ohio, and was moderated by ABC News anchor Martha Raddatz.

The debate was marked by a series of interruptions and personal attacks, with both candidates trying to gain the upper hand. Despite the controversy, the debate highlighted the two candidates' stances on key issues and provided a glimpse into their personalities.

The debate was widely criticized for its lack of substance and for the candidates' constant interruptions. However, it was also seen as an opportunity for voters to learn more about the two candidates and their plans for the country.

A second debate between the candidates is scheduled for October 15, with a third debate planned for October 22. The final debate will be held in Nashville, Tennessee, and will focus on the candidates' visions for the future of the country.

Safety and Security: Advancing women's safety at workplaces in India

The safety and security of women in the workplace are of paramount importance. Women, like men, have the right to work in an environment free from gender-based violence and harassment. In recent years, there has been a growing awareness of the need to protect women workers from harassment and violence in the workplace. Several initiatives have been launched to address this issue, including the POSH Act (Prevention of Sexual Harassment Act).

Challenges Faced

Women in the workplace often face challenges that are specific to their gender. These challenges can include harassment, discrimination, and lack of access to resources and opportunities. To ensure a safe and respectful work environment, it is essential to address these challenges and provide support to women workers.

The Way Forward: Strengthening Protocols and Ensuring Accountability

To prevent workplace harassment, employers and employees need to be aware of the POSH Act and its provisions. The act requires employers to have a POSH officer to handle complaints and investigate cases of harassment. Employers should have a clear and accessible policy that outlines how to report harassment and the steps taken to address it.

Success stories such as the Laxmi Academy, an education institution that offers flexible training programs, have shown that women workers can make meaningful contributions to their organizations. These stories highlight the importance of offering women the opportunity to pursue fulfilling careers and advance their professional development.

Women workers have the right to work in a safe and respectful environment, and it is the responsibility of employers and societal leaders to ensure that these rights are upheld.
But the inner critic is often argumentative rather than constructive. To be able to transform it, I have to find out what is driving the negative mindset.

There are factors outside of us, to do with the society we live in, that play a part. We may have grown up in a strongly critical household. Our schoolkids may not have been very inspiring. Blaming things from past and put this to be helpful at present, however.

There are also present-day factors at work that inflates our self-critics. Quite a lot of what we are exposed to through newspapers and in the home, and sometimes even in the place in the world, the American call 'deficit discourse', is the message they are missing, rather than what is strong and good.

There are also very real social factors that influence us negatively, such as gross inequalities, and exploitative behaviour that brings, and dysfunctional institutions.

It can bring about feelings of jealousy, and wanting to put others, and sometimes even ourselves, in their place. If we realise we have made a mistake that hurt someone, it is not possible.

It may be true that my behaviour currently reflects a lack of self-worth, but that is not intrinsic to who I am. I learned from my mistakes, and I can 'save for the rainy day'.
